Netsian was working in the Auditorium sighting in the new reflectors for the fire alarm beam detectors. After finishing they went to the office to test the system. They found the system down and the circuit breaker still on. The subpanel outside was working but mother board inside the main panel was dead. We currently have no fire protection at the High School. I called Netsian to get a rough estimate to repair the system. They said they would let me know tomorrow, however, they couldn't estimate the damage down stream of the panel until they replaced the main panel components. i.e. Horns/strobes, sensors subpanels.
